

PRIVACY POLICY

Engeny Australia recognises the importance of protecting the privacy of your information. We are required to comply with the Federal Privacy Act 1988 and the Australian Privacy Principles which governs the way we collect, use, disclose, store, secure and dispose of personal information, including the personal information of our employees and contractors.

A copy of the Australian Privacy Principles may be obtained from the website of The Office of the Australian Information Commissioner.

How and Why We Collect Personal Information

We collect personal information in order to provide various services to our clients. With consent, we may also use personal information for related purposes including providing clients with updates on our products and services.

How We Use and Disclose Personal Information

We do not use or disclose personal information for any purpose that is unrelated to the services we provide and that you would not reasonably expect (except with your consent). We have a duty to maintain the confidentiality of our clients' affairs, including personal information. Our duty of confidentiality to our clients applies, except where disclosure of personal information is consented to by the client or is compelled by law.

Client personal information may be disclosed (with your consent) to approved third parties who are also required to comply with the Australian Privacy Principles.

Security of your Personal Information

We endeavour to protect any personal information that we hold from misuse and/or loss, and to protect it from unauthorised access, modification and/or disclosure.

Contact Us

If you want to gain access to your personal information, correct or update your personal details, register a complaint about a breach of your privacy, or you have any other query relating to our privacy policy, please contact us.
